

IFSL YOU Multi-Asset Blend Balanced Fund

Accumulation - GBP

Objective

The objective of the Fund is to increase the value of its investments over a minimum of five years, through a combination of capital growth, which is profit on an investment, and income, which is money paid out from an investment such as interest and dividends. The Fund is actively managed, which means the Investment Manager decides which investments to buy and when, and will invest at least 80% in other collective investment schemes, investment trusts and exchange-traded funds.

Performance summary to 31st May 2022

The Fund performance figures are presented net of the Ongoing Charges Figure (OCF) and are compared to the IA Mixed Investment 20-60% index. This is a risk-based index measuring the performance of investment managers with similar investment characteristics to the MAB Balanced fund.

Market

After a tumultuous start to the year, markets continued to fall in May but rallied strongly in the final week of the month such that the MSCI All Country World Index of global equities finished the month down only -0.3% in GBP terms.

Across equity markets it was quite a mixed month. The value style once again outperformed growth as expensive tech names which have performed brilliantly for the last few years continued to be shunned by the market. Over the month, the MSCI All Country World Value Index outperformed its Growth equivalent by over 4%.

Japanese Equity was the strongest performing asset class for the month which was aided by a strengthening of the Yen vs GBP as investors became more fearful of the UK and global economic outlook. The FTSE All Share Index of UK equities was also a strong performer as the dominance of energy and material stocks on the London Stock Exchange were aided by persistently strong global commodity prices.

Both the riskiest and least risky forms of Fixed Income fell over the month. The former was illustrative of high yield markets pricing in a higher probability of recession and the start of a default cycle, while the latter was driven by global treasury markets falling due to higher interest rates. The team have closely observed the changing relationship between treasuries and equities over recent months as we enter a new inflation landscape. For the past two decades, treasuries and equities have tended to move in opposite directions and have provided fantastic diversification to multi-asset investors. As the economic environment has changed recently, their performance has begun to move in the same direction. This makes it all the more critical to employ the specialist, active Fixed Income managers such as those listed below, as well as Absolute Return managers which provide genuine diversification.

Performance

The Fund returned -0.9% for the month of May and since launch on 22nd July 2019 the Fund has now returned +13.7%.

Our long-term Strategic Asset Allocation for the month was flat, as was our Tactical Asset Allocation positioning as gains from our UK and Japanese Equity were offset by our underweight to Europe Ex-UK Equity.

Fund manager selection was slightly negative for the month, detracting -0.2%. Outperforming managers such as Pzena Global Value and Allianz Fixed Income Macro were more than offset by weak performance from Premier Miton UK Value Opportunities and the Fulcrum Thematic Equity Market Neutral Fund.

Over the past 12 months, active Fixed Income has been the main source of manager alpha with the UBS China Bond Fund, ASI Short Dated Inflation Linked Bond Fund and MAN GLG High Yield Opportunities Fund being particularly strong performers. This was offset by the Premier Miton UK Value Opportunities Fund.

We maintained the broad Active/ Passive split within the Fund for the month, with 60% towards Active managers.
