

Market

June was another strong month for both Equity and Fixed Income market returns. The MSCI All Country World Index of global equities was up +3.0% in GBP terms, but outcomes for equity markets were very geographically diverse this month. Among the best-performing global equity markets were Emerging Markets with the MSCI Emerging Markets Index up +4.8% for the month. Interestingly, this was driven by emerging market economies excluding China, where the market was down -1.1% in GBP terms.

Another strongly performing market was U.S equities, denoted by the S&P 500 index of the largest U.S stocks rising +4.3% in GBP terms over the month. What is truly remarkable about the persistently strong U.S equity market performance we have witnessed this month (and indeed over the last decade) has been how narrowly it has been focused in a very small number of the largest names in the index. By way of illustration, if we look at the "equal-weighted" S&P 500 index, whereby every stock constitutes an identical proportion of the index, this was up only +0.3% for the month (as opposed to the "market-cap weighted" version quoted above which is heavily biased towards the largest companies).

In recent years, we have witnessed one of the strongest runs of performance for large companies vs smaller companies since records began. While this is very accommodative to "passive" investment strategies which only seek to blindly replicate market-cap weighted indices, we think it is exceptionally important for investors to remain globally diversified in their portfolios and include opportunities across the market cap spectrum as well as healthy allocations to actively-managed, research-driven exposures.

Performance

In June, your Fund returned +1.0%, which was -0.1% behind its IA sector comparator. Since its launch on 17th October 2022, your Fund has generated a return of +12.7%.

Given the lower-risk profile of this Fund, its composition is heavily skewed towards Fixed Income which currently makes up 40% of the exposure. High-quality global government bond holdings drove returns this month denoted by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index returning +0.9% (hedged to GBP). Our supplementary exposure to long-duration U.S Treasuries also performed strongly as interest rates fell, and this exposure boosted the returns of MAB Cautious. U.S, Global and Emerging Market equity allocations all had a positive impact on Fund performance this month, while our exposure to Continental Europe and the UK markets detracted very slightly.

Tactical asset allocation had a marginally positive impact on Fund performance this month, with our underweight to Continental European equities adding value but being partially offset by our overweight to UK equities while our overweight to Japanese equities was flat.

Top performing active managers for the month included the Sanlam Multi-Strategy Fund which we hold in our Absolute Return asset class, as well as a range of large-cap and growth-biased equity managers such as the Lindsell Train UK, GSAM Japan and BlackRock Continental European Funds. These were offset by more muted performance from our value and small-cap oriented managers.

No changes were made to the Fund's Tactical Asset Allocation. The Fund remains highly diversified across asset classes, regions, and investment styles.
