Objective

The objective of the Fund is to increase the value of its investments over a minimum of five years, through a combination of capital growth, which is profit on an investment, and income, which is money paid out from an investment such as interest and dividends. The Fund is actively managed, which means the Investment Manager decides which investments to buy and when, and will invest at least 80% in other collective investment schemes, investment trusts and exchange-traded funds.

Market

September was an interesting month for financial markets. Two of the best-performing types of investments have traditionally been very different in terms of their risk. One was high-quality global bonds, which are considered safe assets, and the other was emerging market stocks, which are usually seen as riskier assets.

Global bonds performed well over the month, with a return of +1.1%. This was mainly due to inflation rates falling worldwide, which makes it easier for central banks to lower interest rates and relax the strict policies put in place in recent years to fight inflation. In the Eurozone, inflation is now at 1.8% year-over-year, below the European Central Bank's target of 2%. In the U.S., the Federal Reserve's preferred inflation rate dropped to 2.2% year-over-year, showing a significant recent downward trend.

Overall, global stocks didn't show much change in September, with a slight gain of +0.3% for the MSCI All Country World Index of global shares. However, the Chinese government introduced a range of economic support measures in the last week of the month. These were to help their struggling economy, which has been affected by a property market slump and an aging population. As a result, Chinese stocks shot up by +21.4%, boosting the performance of emerging market stocks as a whole which rallied +4.6%, both in GBP terms.

As ever, this illustrates nicely the importance of maintaining a global opportunity set when it comes to investing for the long term.

Performance

In September, your Fund returned +0.8%, ahead of its IA sector comparator by 0.1%. Since its launch on 17th October 2022, your Fund has generated cumulative returns of +14.6%.

Given the lower-risk profile of the Cautious Fund, its composition is heavily skewed towards Fixed Income which currently makes up 40% of the exposure. This was the predominant driver of the Fund's returns for the month as high quality global bonds rallied on easing inflation concerns.

The active managers within your Fund delivered strong performance in the aggregate for the month. Top performers included the ClearBridge Global Infrastructure Income Fund, whose performance was boosted by the lower interest rate environment which was very beneficial for their U.S. exposures. Other strong performers included the Sanlam Multi Strategy Fund, and the commodities-oriented exposures gained through the UBS Commodity ETF and the AQR Managed Futures Fund, both of which benefited from the Chinese economic stimulus announced at the end of the month.

No changes were made to the Fund's Tactical Asset Allocation. The Fund remains highly diversified across asset classes, regions, and investment styles.
